DDC 025.06/3337/0971.

This publication is a cooperative effort between Statistics Canada and the Canadian Council of Ministers of the Environment. It presents an inventory of provincial and territorial government databases of potential use in environmental reporting. The inventory is a meta-database, that is, a database of databases, and forms one of the components of Statistics Canada's Environmental Information System. It contains detailed descriptions of 833 environmental databases held by provincial and territorial government departments. An MS-DOS diskette version of the inventory is included with each publication.

ISBN 0-660-15354-8.

DDC 306.8/5/0971.

Canadians face many decisions concerning their relationships with family and friends. Marriage and common-law unions, child-bearing and birth intentions, sharing housework, helping family and friends, and family contacts are some of the themes addressed by this publication. One chapter focuses solely on the family structures and dynamics of older Canadians - those aged 45 to 64 and those aged 65 and over. A number of articles based on the General Social Survey data have already been published in Canadian social trends, Perspectives on labour and income and other publications. Now this report provides more extensive analyses, including detailed tabulations and some comparisons with the 1984 family history survey.

Concordance between the Standard Industrial Classifications of Canada and the United States: errata, 1980 Canadian SIC - 1987 United States SIC. 39 p. 28 cm. [1991].

DDC 338/.02/012.

The more detailed examination of both the Canadian and American Standard Industrial Classifications undertaken during the project to concord both these classifications and the European Union (NACE) to the International Standard Industrial Classification, (ISIC Rev3), resulted in changes to the concordance between the Canadian and

GENERAL AND REFERENCE

U.S. SIC's. These errata are set up in the same format as the Canada-U.S. Concordance i.e.: tables that give the 1980 Canadian links to the 1987 U.S. SIC and the inverse in U.S. SIC order with links to the Canadian SIC. These are followed by notes which explains the partial relationships shown in the tables as indicated by asterisks. The explanatory notes are also displayed in both Canadian and U.S. SIC order. The amendments to the concordance are shown by utilizing letters. The table in Canadian SIC order gives the changes to be made to the U.S. SIC links, similarly the table in U.S. SIC order gives the changes to the Canadian links. This document contains the changes to the Concordance between the Standard Industrial Classifications of Canada and the United States, 1980 Canadian SIC - 1987 United States SIC (12-574) which was released in February 1991.

Fixed capital flows and stocks, 1961-1994, historical/ Statistics Canada, Investment and Capital Stock Division, National Wealth and Capital Stock Section. 303 p. 28 cm. 1994. Bilingual.
ISBN 0-660-58915-X.
DDC 332/.0414/0971.

This new historical publication features national series by industry as well as provincial and territorial totals. The series answers questions such as the size of the capital stock (fixed assets) for Canada and the provinces and territories, rates of growth, the productive capacity of individual industrial sectors and the average age of assets. The data show how technology is accelerating the obsolescence of assets. The publication also includes price indexes for capital expenditures on construction and machinery and equipment by industry, and a complete description of the methodology. More detailed industrial and provincial series are available on request.

STUDIES IN NATIONAL ACCOUNTING

13-603E no. 2

The size of the underground economy in Canada / Statistics Canada, System of National Accounts, National Accounts and Environment Division. 62 p. 28 cm. 1994. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-15442-0.

DDC 336.24/16/0971.

A preliminary version of this study was presented at Laurentian University in Sudbury on February 25th. Its first part defines the underground economy, drawing a distinction between unmeasured and untaxed production. The second and third parts estimate underground transactions that are potentially escaping measurement and those that are already captured in gross domestic product. The study concludes by examining whether the resultant underestimation of gross domestic product also entails an underestimation of its growth rate. Estimates of the underground economy, as an upper limit, for 1992 are: unmeasured underground production, 2.7% of GDP; underground production already measured, 1.5%; illegal production, 1%. Thus, as an upper limit, the total value of production that may have escaped detection by the tax authorities in 1992 is 5.2%.

Capital expenditures by type of asset. Annual. First issue 1992. Bilingual.

ISSN 1201-057X.

DDC 338.4/367/0971.

How much capital did private and public firms spend on construction and on machinery and equipment in 1992? This new publication provides the answers by province and territory and by the 19 divisions of the Canadian economy. It details capital expenditures according to four types of residential construction, 95 types of non-residential construction, and 56 categories of machinery and equipment. Included are data on capital expenditures for major renovation and alteration of construction assets and for major retrofit and refurbishing of machinery and equipment assets. Trade and general construction contractors, suppliers of construction materials, and suppliers of machinery and equipment will find these data useful for market analysis. Note: This publication replaces the discontinued Construction in Canada (64-201) and Capital expenditures on machinery and equipment by type of asset (uncatalogued).

The directory presents information in an easy-to-read format tiered format, showing at a glance the hierarchy of subsidiaries within each enterprise structure. Entries for each corporation provide country of control and percentage of voting rights held. Inclusion of a Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) and province of head office for most Canadian resident corporations allows study on an industrial or geographical level. In addition to the alphabetical index in each directory, indexes by country of control, province of head office, and SIC-C (company basis) are also available ($31.95 each). (These indexes have been available since 1992.) Note: Inter-corporate Ownership is also available quarterly on a CD-ROM disk.

Strategies for success: a profile of growing small and medium-sized enterprises (GSMEs) in Canada. / John Baldwin ... [et al]. 109 p. 28 cm. 1994. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-15401-3.

DDC 338.6/42/0971.

This publication summarizes the results of the 1992 survey of small and medium-sized businesses in Canada. The special survey profiles a group of firms that grew rapidly in the late 1980s. It focuses on their activities, business strategies and characteristics. The study summarizes the factors that were perceived by small growing firms as important to their growth. It examines strategies in which they feel they outpace their competitors. It investigates the importance attributed to new marketing: technology, input-sourcing, human-resource and management strategies. Finally, it profiles training, research and development, innovative, and export activities.

Service indicators. Quarterly. First issue, 2nd quarter 1994. Bilingual.

ISSN 1195-5961.

DDC 338.7/61/0971.

This publication presents current data and analysis on a number of dynamic service industries in Canada. It draws upon a variety of sources to present an integrated picture of recent events. In addition, each issue will include an in-depth feature article. In the second quarter of 1994, employment, gross domestic product, consumer spending, prices, exports and imports of services all increased. In communications, operating revenues grew to an all-time high. The acquisitions of trust companies by banks continued to change the structure of the finance and insurance industries. Dramatic full-time job growth took place in business services.

EMPLOYMENT, UNEMPLOYMENT AND LABOUR INCOME

75-507E

Women in the labour force, 1994 edition / Target Groups Project. 68 p. 28 cm. 1994. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-15434-X.

DDC 331.4/0971.

While the proportion of women in the labour force has increased dramatically, several aspects of women's work experience have been slower to change. For example, while many women are entering occupations in which few women have worked in the past, most employed women are still concentrated in female-dominated occupations; women's earnings remain well below those of their male counterparts; and even when employed, women are still primarily responsible for housework and family care. This report describes these and other trends related to women's participation in the labour force. The information presented here has been integrated from a variety of Statistics Canada sources to provide an overview of the labour force participation, employment, unemployment, earnings and employment benefits of women. The report also includes sections examining the changes in the educational attainment of women and the impact of these changes on their labour force activity; the relationship between women's work experience and their family responsibilities; and the exposure of women to perceived work-related health hazards. Finally, the report also includes lists of historical and legislative milestones central to the evolution of women's participation in the labour force over the last four decades.

Criminal justice processing of sexual assault cases / Julian V. Roberts. 82 p. 28 cm. 1994. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-15559-1.

DDC 364.1/53/0971.

The purpose of this report is to compile recent statistics on the incidence of sexual assault reported to the police across Canada and to provide a descriptive portrait of the criminal justice response to reports of sexual assault. The focus is on police statistics derived from the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) survey, and on court statistics from the Sentencing Study. These databases are maintained by the Canadian Centre for Justice Statistics. Note: This report expands upon the Juristat service bulletin: criminal justice processing of sexual assault cases (85-002, vol. 14 no. 7).

SOCIAL ANALYTICAL STUDIES

89-511E

Youth in Canada / Colin Lindsay, Mary Sue Devereaux, Michael Bergob. 2nd ed. 52 p. 28 cm. 1994. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-15330-0.

DDC 305.2/35/0971.

For youths, the ages 15 to 19 are a transition period. Most still live at home and a growing percentage are enrolled in academic institutions. At the same time, however, they are beginning to experience problems and characteristics usually associated with adult life. Many, for example, have begun to leave home, others are entering the labour market for the first time. Youths have the highest unemployment rate of any age group in the country. In addition, those who head families or live alone have very low incomes. These characteristics and others -- demographic, family status, education, labour force characteristics, income, health, time-use patterns, criminal activity and victimization -- are described in this report, which has drawn upon many sources.

International conference on the measurement and valuation of unpaid work proceedings / Statistics Canada, Labour and Household Surveys Analysis Division. 149 p. 28 cm. 1994. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-15400-5.

DDC 361.3/7.

This publication is a record of the International Conference on the Measurement and Valuation of Unpaid Work hosted by Statistics Canada and co-sponsored by

EDUCATION, HEALTH, CULTURE AND SOCIAL ISSUES

Status of Women Canada. The main purpose of the conference was to provide Statistics Canada with the experiences and insights of experts from Canada and from around the world, with a view to accelerating its developments in this field. It achieved this goal by providing a forum for the exchange of information on the benefits and problems associated with generating estimates of unpaid work and its value. Participants discussed the potential for developing a new system of accounts parallel to the existing System of National Accounts. They also debated the content of the 1996 Census of population. Its comprehensive nature was intended to make initial input to the development of international standards or guidelines on the statistical accounting of unpaid work. Perhaps of equal importance for the global development of statistics on unpaid work, the conference was the starting point for the development of an informal international network of practitioners in the field.

Included are chapters by two authorities in the field: Dr. Alfred Khan and Dr. Sheila Kamerman. Dr. Donna Lero, a leading Canadian authority on child care, co-wrote one chapter. The writers drew upon several of Statistics Canada's national surveys and its new total work accounts system.

ISBN 0-660-58900-1.

DDC 306/.089/971.

This report on two distinct topics -- disability and housing -- is the final release from the 1991 Aboriginal Peoples Survey (APS). The information was collected from 625,710 persons who reported in the APS that they identified with an Aboriginal group (i.e., they considered themselves to be North American Indian, Métis or Inuit). Those who identified with an Aboriginal group represented approximately 63% of the total who, in the 1991 Census of Population, reported having Aboriginal origin(s) and/or being registered under the Indian Act of Canada.

Dimensions of job-family tension / by Leroy O. Stone; with chapters by Alfred J. Kahn, Sheila B. Kamerman and Donna S. Lero. 113 p. 23 cm. 1994. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-15436-6.

DDC 306.3/6/0971.

This report is the first national study to document characteristics of persons who are heavily involved in family care that goes beyond care of their own children. Canada's rapidly ageing population means a growing number of workers will have to provide more care to parents, spouses or other close relatives. The study was written by Dr. Leroy Stone with support from authorities on the problems of balancing job and family obligations.

91-213

Annual demographic statistics. Annual. First issue 1993. Bilingual.

ISSN 1195-9762.

DDC 304.6/0971.

These estimates are based on the 1991 Census results, and the Agency's estimates of the number of people not counted by the Census. In addition, they now include non-permanent residents. This publication contains the following data: estimates of the number of census families for Canada, the provinces, and territories, by type of family (husband-wife, lone-parent), size, age and sex of parents, and age of children as of July 1; postcensal estimates of the population for Canada, the provinces and territories, by age, sex and marital status, as of July 1, as well as statistics by age and sex for deaths, immigration, emigration, interprovincial, and the non-permanent resident population; and postcensal estimates of the population for census divisions and census metropolitan areas in Canada, by the regression-nested and component methods. In addition, this new publication contains population projections for the coming five years, highlights of the current demographic trends, and statistics for major demographic indicators such as fertility, mortality, nuptiality, and divorce. A brief description of the methods used to produce the estimates is also included. Note: For greater convenience to users, this collection of population estimates provides information previously covered by publications 91-204, 91-210, 91-211 and 91-212.

1991 CENSUS

TECHNICAL REPORTS

The 1991 Census was a large and complex undertaking. While considerable effort was taken to ensure high quality standards throughout all collection and processing operations, the results are subject to a certain degree of error. The technical reports examine the quality of the 1991 Census data. Technical reports look at definitions, concepts and components of variables, collection and coverage, regional and head office processing, edit and imputation, data evaluation and quality, and historical comparability with data from previous censuses. This series is aimed at moderate and sophisticated users but will be written in a manner which could make them useful to all census data users. Two additional methodological reports on coverage and on sampling and weighting also provide valuable assistance to the users in assessing the usefulness of the data for their own applications.

ISBN 0-660-57149-8.

DDC 304.6/0971.

The 100% and 20% sample profiles show data within each province for census metropolitan areas (CMAs) as a group, census agglomerations (CAs) as a group, and the areas outside CMAs and CAs as a group. The areas outside CMAs and CAs are shown by population size. Separate profiles are shown for rural farm and rural non-farm areas within CMAs, within CAs, and outside CMAs and CAs. For rural farm areas, the Part A profile (100% data) includes some data from the census of agriculture, such as number and aggregate area of

Types of Publications

Subscribing to Periodicals

You can subscribe to any Statistics Canada publication that is issued regularly. Publications are identified as daily, weekly, monthly, quarterly, semi-annual or annual. All subscribers are sent their publication on the day it is released.

When completing the order form, remember to list the subscription price and write an "S" (subscription) in the issue column.

When you order a subscription you will be sent the next issue released. The length of time it takes to receive your first issue depends on the frequency of the publication. There may be a period of up to three months before the next issue of a quarterly publication is released, and the release of a new annual publication may take up to 12 months, depending on the release date.

As a continuing service to our subscription clients, we issue renewal notices and reminder notices as your expiry date approaches to help ensure uninterrupted delivery of your publications. You will also be advised of related publications to allow you to update your statistical library.

Multi-year subscriptions, are available for up to three years on Statistics Canada's most popular titles. The following publications are eligible for multi-year subscriptions:

Canadian Economic Observer (10-230)
Canadian Social Trends (11-008)
Perspectives on Labour and Income (75-001)
Infomat (11-002)
Health Reports (82-003)
Report on the Demographic Situation in Canada (91-209E)

Multi-year subscriptions ensure that there will be no interruption in the issues sent to you, as well as reducing administrative costs. Subscription rates for the second and third year are the same as the currently listed price, so multiyear subscribers are also insulated against price increases.

When ordering, please indicate clearly the number of years for which you would like to subscribe.

Purchasing Single Issues

You may wish to order a single copy of a publication before subscribing for a full period. To order a single copy of any publication or series, remember to list the single issue price when ordering. You will receive a copy of the most recent issue. It takes up to four days to process your order for currently available issues of any publication. Orders for publications not yet released are placed on back order and will be shipped to you the day the publication is released.

Many publications listed in the Catalogue Supplement are issued only occasionally. When ordering these titles, you will receive a copy of the most recent issue. Please note that pre-payment is required for the purchase of all casual/occasional publications.

Ordering Publications

You may order any Statistics Canada publication using the order form at the back of this publication. For existing clients, please give your client account number.

Order by Mail or Fax

The signature of an authorized company representative is required on all orders.

... or from one of our Regional Reference Centres listed in the front cover. For your convenience, retail distributors are also listed in the Catalogue Supplement (page 36).

Order by Phone

To minimize delays, use your Purchase Order number, MasterCard or VISA and call 1-800-267-6677 (in Canada or the U.S.) or (613) 951-7277.

Regional Reference Centres are also pleased to take your telephone orders. Their telephone numbers are listed on the inside front cover.

To avoid double billing, please do not send written confirmation of phone orders.

Purchase in Person

You can purchase publications at any Statistics Canada Regional Reference Centre, at many local bookstores, and from authorized agents' outlets (see Retail distributors on page 36).

ORDERING PUBLICATIONS

Payment

Cheques or money orders should be made payable to the Receiver General for Canada - Publications. Clients may also charge orders to MasterCard or VISA. Purchase Order numbers are also acceptable from authorized company representatives. Prepayment is required for all orders.

Canadian clients must pay in Canadian funds, adding 7% GST, where applicable. Clients from the United States and other countries must pay in US$ drawn on a U.S. bank.

Renewals

For uninterrupted service, it is best to renew well in advance. Late renewal may result in missed issues that will have to be purchased separately, if available.

All customers will receive convenient renewal notices. A prompt reply to these will ensure continuous service. If you receive a renewal form or a reminder notice after you have mailed in your payment, please disregard it.

Prices

Prices for Statistics Canada Products are subject to change without notice. To check current publication prices, call (613) 951-7277 or call any Statistics Canada Regional Reference Centre. They will gladly provide information or ordering assistance. For ordering assistance you may also call 1-800-267-6677.

Returns/Refunds

All sales are final except in the case of incorrect shipment. All returns must be pre-authorized by Statistics Canada. Details on this policy are available from Client Services staff. Call (613) 951-5078 for more information.

Clients who wish to cancel a subscription may receive a refund on undelivered issues only. Subscription issues already delivered may not be returned for a refund.

Change of Address

Subscribers must notify Statistics Canada at least one month in advance of a change of address to ensure uninterrupted delivery. Clients who fail to notify Statistics Canada of a change of address will be responsible paying for replacements of missed issues. Free replacements or refunds will not be issued.

With your notification, please include:

- your old address;
- your new address;
- your client account number.

Delivery Methods

All of our publications are delivered by first class mail. Delivery time to most parts of Canada is a few days. Clients who request a rush service with courier delivery must prepay a $25.00 fee plus the courier charges.
